From the Paris Gazette a la main, Dated Octob. 6.

Fontainbleau, Oct. 4.

THE Court of Spain looking on the Amirante of Caſtile to be better affected to the Houſe of Auſtria than to the preſent Government, propos'd to him to go Ambaſſador to France; as an honourable Expedient to remove him from Court. He accepted the Offer, and made great Preparation for his Journey, ſending ſome of his Domeſticks before to Paris to provide Coaches and Liverys, Accordingly on the 13th ult. he ſet out from Madrid accompany'd by a great number of Friends and Servants: But ſince that, an Extraordinary Courier has brought Advice that the Amirante being come as far as Lamora, told the Governour of that Place, that he had ſecret Orders from the Queen to the Court of Portugal, and ſo inſtead of going on to France, made the beſt of his way to Lisbon, where 'tis ſuppos'd he will embark for England. If this be confirm'd, he has quitted one of the Chief Offices of the Kingdom, to which great Honours, Prerogatives and Revenues are annex'd; beſides his own Eſtate of 600000 Livres per Annum. Letters from Madrid tell us that before he went away he took up very conſiderable Summs on pretence of making a ſplendid Embaſſy; which will enable him to maintain himſelf wherever he goes, ſuitably to his Quality.

From the Leiden Gazette, Dated Oct. 12.

They write from Warſaw of the 24th ult. That the Deputys of the Republick of Poland would ſet forwards from thence in a ſhort time to make ſome Propoſals of Peace to the King of Sweden: which if he rejects they are to declare War againſt him on the part of the Republick: And that theſe Deputys have ſworn to act according to their Inſtructions, without ſuffering themſelves to be ſway'd either by Promiſes or Threatnings.

From the Amſterdam Courant, Dated Octob. 14.

Baſil, Oct. 4. The Cantons that are in League with us have ſent us 1000 men, 600 of which are garriſon'd in the Town, and the other 400 are poſted in the Avenues to it. The Paſſage of Augſt is ſecur'd by a ſufficient Guard, upon the information we have receiv'd that the Elector of Bavaria intends to make an Attempt upon the Forreſt Towns, if he can be join'd by the French. 'Tis ſaid that Prince Lewis of Baden is arriv'd in the Camp of the Imperialiſts at Fridlingen.

'Tis confirm'd by theſe Letters that the Marqueſs de Villars has laid a Bridge over the Rhine at Hunninghen, after having beat off the Germans that oppos'd him.

Frankfort, Oct. 8. Marſhal Catinat having detach'd the Marqueſs de Villars to paſs the Rhine at Hunninghen, Prince Lewis of Baden order'd the Troops of the Imperialiſts and thoſe of the Circles that lay at Offenburg to march to Fridlingen, and is gone after them himſelf to hinder the French from getting over the River: tho there is no fear of their joyning the Bavarians, becauſe the latter are gone back towards Ulm. They write from Nuremburg of the 6th that the Bavarians having taken Memminghen and Nordlingen, were marching towards Ausburg. The Imperial Army in Alſatia are poſted at Biſchweiler; from whence General Bibra is detach'd with a Body of Horſe and Foot and ſome Field Pieces to poſſeſs himſelf of Lutzelſtein, from which Place a Line will be drawn to the Rhine, to cover the Country from the Incurſions of the Emy from the Upper Alſatia.

From the Harlem Courant, Dated Octob. 14.

Cologne, Oct. 10. The French under the Elector of Cologne and Count Tallard ſet fire to their Camp near Mulheim, upon the approach of the Engliſh and Dutch Troops, and drew off towards Bonn; carrying away a great Booty of Cattle, Corn, Salt, Butter, Cloaths, &c. their three days Plunder in the Dutchy of Bergues. They pillag'd Morsburg, and the Cloyſter of Dunewald, ſtripping the Prieſts: But at Mulheim they us'd more Violence to the Lutherans and Calviniſts, their Wives and Daughters, and made them pay 1000 Rixdollars for having convey'd the beſt of their Effects into this City. They took the very Clock-work out of the Steeple, but left the Bells for want of Horſes to carry them off. Several Engliſh and Dutch Regiments of Horſe and Dragoons are come to Duſſeldorp, Zons, and before this Town, where the 4 Regiments that lately lay encamp'd at Mulheim have joyn'd them. 'Tis thought that they will form a Camp at Langemylen between this Place and Bonn; the Foot will come to them by the way of Berchem. Some Troops are drawing from Duſſeldorp and other Places towards this City, and will encamp over-againſt it on the other ſide of the Rhine. They bring Cannon, Mortars and Ammunition with them, and we think they will lay Siege to Bonn. The Boors in the Country of Bergues have ſhot ſeveral of the French; and two days ago the Elector of Cologne and Count Tallard going to take a view of Siegburg, they fir'd warmly upon them, and kill'd ſeveral of their Company.

The following Letter is from an Officer in the Engliſh Troops that are with my Lord Marlborough.

Maeſtricht, Octob. 9th, 1702. N. S.

SIR,

'BEing not yet perfectly recover'd of my Wounds, 'I can ſend you no News from our Army, and 'therefore pray you will accept the following Epi'tome of our Summer's Proceedings, comprehended 'under the Names of,

'I. Such Places of our Allies as have been re'liev'd or preſerv'd by our Army.

'II. Such of the Enemy's as have been attack'd 'and taken.

'III. Such as have been abandoned without ex'pecting an Aſſault.

'Of the Firſt are Nimeghen, Hulſt and Kykuyt.

'Of the Second are Keyſerwaert, Grevenbroeck, 'Weert, Stockem, Venlo, Ruremond, Stevens'waert, Wachtendoncher, Lynn and Campen.

'Of the Laſt are Zons, Nuys, Brey, Peer, 'Maes-Eyke, Weſſem and Reckem. And here it 'is to be obſerv'd that Keyſerwaert alone coſt more

Men

Men and Time than all the other Places, tho of far leſs importance than many of them.

'I will not pretend to determine what Influence this Succeſs of our Arms is owing to; but it is certain that this one Campaign has gain'd more Glory to England and Advantage to the Allies than the whole laſt War; and both theſe might probably have been ſtill much greater, if our General had been at liberty to purſue his own Methods without Controul. We expect a new General at the Head of our Enemies next Year, which we do not apprehend to be of very fatal Conſequence to us: For Monſ. Boufflers muſt be acknowledg'd to have all the Abilities and Application of a Great General, and his want of Succeſs this Campaign can be attributed to nothing but the ſuperior Genius of my Lord Marlborough; and we have no reaſon to doubt but the caſe will be the ſame with any other General that France can ſend in the room of Monſ. Boufflers. You may poſſibly hear from me again, for though my Campaign be ended, yet our General continues in the Field, where I believe his Harveſt of Glory is not yet ended.

'P.S. By the entire Conqueſt we have made of Spaniſh Guelder, the French are totally excluded the following Countries, viz. all between the Wahl and the Maes, the Dutchy of Cleves, the Maierie of the Boſch, the Principality of Liege, the Dutchy of Juliers, the Dutchy of Limbourg, the Electorate of Cologne, the Dutchy of Bergue, and the County of Meurs.

From the Camp of the Allies under the Earl of Marlborough at Soutendal, Octob. 12.

Yeſterday morning a Detachment of Dutch Cavalry and Dragoons met with a Party of 120 of the Enemy's Foot near Tongeren, took 100 of them with their Commander, and brought them into the Camp: 4 Squadrons of French Horſe appear'd likewiſe, but as ſoon as ours advanc'd towards them they retired. The Earl of Marleborough made a review of the Engliſh Foot, and found them in very good order; the Horſe and all the foreign Troops had paſs'd in review before. The Heer Geldermalſen one of the Deputys of the States, and Lieutenant General Cohorne came hither from Ruremond laſt Night. The Forces that ſerv'd in that Siege conſiſting of 20 Squadrons and 12 Battalions will be here this day: And the Artillery will be brought up the Meuſe with all Expedition. Hereupon his Excellency our General has given Orders for the Army to break up this night, and paſs the Jeckar, to advance towards the Enemy: who muſt either retire to Liege and quit their Lines and all Brabant; or they muſt endeavour to ſecure the latter and expoſe Liege to us: 'tis moſt probable that they will leave Liege to us, which if they do, we ſhall continue our March, and be before it to morrow night; and when our Artillery is come up, we ſhall beſiege it in form. We are aſſured that the Enemy have already drawn off all their Ammunition and Proviſions out of the City, and that the Garriſon is order'd to retire into the two Cittadels at the warning of a Great Gun. 'Tis reported that Count Tallard is gone back in haſte towards Bonn, without having executed his Deſign againſt Duſſeldorp.

The laſt Letters from the Camp of Prince Eugene are of the 25th, and from the King of Spain's Army of the 28th ult. There has been no Action between them, and they continue in their former Poſts at Luzara. For what has been done by their Partys, and the Meaſures that are reported to be taken, on both ſides, for proſecuting the War, we refer to our next; in which ſhall be incerted the Particulars at full length, of all the Advices from Italy that came by the two laſt Mails.
